

Group Leaders Who We Are

About Us

Gary Morse, the minister at Lambuth Memorial United Methodist Church, is raising his granddaughter and seeks to talk with others who are sharing this experience.

Teri Canaday Freeman is a child specialist who has worked with parents for over 40 years. A grandparent of 4, she seeks to serve other grandparents who are parenting a second time around.

Looking for support as you raise your grandkids?

Join us each month on the second Saturday at 4:00 for conversation about the joys and challenges of caring for your grandchild.

- Talk to other grandparents and relatives who have found themselves caring for children needing care.
- Find the support to meet daily challenges faced when parenting a second time around.

Some of the Topics for Discussion:

- Setting boundaries to provide safe, stable, nurturing relationships and environments.
- Making schedule changes
- Providing for your grandchild's Emotional, Social, Physical and Spiritual Needs
- Finding time for yourself
- Dealing with the heart of conflict
- Dealing with the parents of your grandchild

This support group is built around the needs of the individuals who attend. Bring your questions to share and find out how others have dealt with similar situations.

"How do I deal with health insurance? How do I keep going when I am so exhausted? Why don't I understand my grandchild's misguided behavior? What happened to my retirement plans?"

Find out about the importance of routine and consistent discipline.

Positive discipline will help your household run more smoothly. Find out what gets in the way of having a smooth family life.

Support for You!

Gain personal strength by sharing and listening to other folks who have dealt with situations like yours. Learn to look ahead with hope and a positive attitude. Find out about what you can expect as you move through the process of parenting the second time around.
